C. Definitions and Abbreviation

1. Assessment

The processes used to evaluate achievement of the expected learning outcomes (knowledge, skills and competences), leading to certification of a qualification or part of a qualification.

2. Credit hour:

The academic credit provides a basis to measure the amount of engaged learning time expected of a typical student. A credit, or credit hour, is a unit of measurement defining the student's overall effort towards attaining a qualification.

In the US system, which is adopted by most UAE institutions, 1 semester credit equals approximately 1 hour of time in class per week over a semester of 15 weeks or longer. It is assumed that a student spends two hours outside of class in independent learning or specific course assignments for every hour in class. This implies that one academic credit equates to a 45-hour commitment to learning over a semester. For laboratory or studio-based courses, the allocation of credit differs; 1 semester credit normally is given for two hours of laboratory or studio time per week over a 15-week semester.

3. Concentration

A concentration is best thought of as a grouping of courses which represent a sub-specialization taken within the major field of study. For example, a student majoring in biology might have a concentration in genetics, or a student in electrical engineering may have a concentration in telecommunications or instrumentation and control. A concentration may be specified on the student's academic record (transcript) but not on the degree certificate. The CAA requires a concentration to include at least 15 credits of study, or equivalent, in the specialized field in order to be recognized by the MOHESR. In graduate programs this must include the thesis and at least 9 credits of other courses.

4. Core Courses

These are the courses which forms the stem of any program and are compulsory for a student to progress into specialization or concentration courses. Generally, they comprise more than 50% of total credits of a program however it may vary depending upon the program structure based on the nature of the program.

5. Course or Module

A course consists of a number of instructional activities over a prescribed period of time. It deals with a single subject and is commonly described by title, number, credits, and expected learning outcomes in the institution's Catalog. A module sometimes refers to a sub-division within a course covering a topic or part of a topic. In the British system, the term module is synonymous with course. In systems based on American higher education, the term module typically refers to a course which is offered in a more concentrated framework, such as an "8-week module." Note that in the UK and in other systems adopting terminology used in the UK, the word course is often used to refer to what the Standards term a program

6. Electives

The elective courses are choice-based courses which a student can take to complete a particular block or categories of courses. These are provided to accommodate the possible options in term of field or content of study available through a program.

Courses which are not compulsory for students. Electives may be free—selected by the student from any course offerings, or restricted—chosen from a pre-determined list of options.

7. General Education

General education is that aspect of an undergraduate curriculum intended to provide students with critical thinking skills; a broad understanding of the approaches to knowledge such as the humanities, the arts, the social sciences or the sciences; a common core of understanding among students (such as in Islamic studies or other cultural studies); and a level of skill appropriate to higher education in mathematics, information

8. Internship

The term applies to an experience in which a student has a program-related assignment involving attachment to a recognized business, agency or organization. The internship must be appropriate to the major or program of study of the student. The term "practicum" is usually synonymous with internship. For each program Internship a syllabus and a manual is published.

9. Learning Outcomes

In the context of QF Emirates, this refers to knowledge, skills, and aspects of competence that a learner is expected to know and be able to do at each level of a qualification (see <https://www.nqa.gov.ae/en>).

10.Level

An indication of the relative complexity and/or depth of achievement, and the autonomy required to demonstrate that achievement by the learner. As per UAE National Qualification framework, the bachelor's degree is Level 6 while Master degree is level 7.

11.Level Descriptors

Generic statements which specify the learning outcomes and the purpose of a qualification at a given level, defined in terms of knowledge, skills and competence. The descriptors can be used for describing and comparing qualifications

12.Major

The major is the field of study in which a student specializes at the baccalaureate level. The term is not typically used in qualifications below the baccalaureate and is only occasionally used in graduate programs. The major usually requires that a student complete a minimum of 30 semester credits (or equivalent) that are specified for the major and distinctive to that subject area. To earn a double major, a student must meet the subject-area requirements of each of the two majors. Typically, a student receiving a degree with a major will be issued a degree certificate that includes the name of the major: for instance, Bachelor of Arts in History or Bachelor of Science in Biology.

13.Minor

A minor is a separate field of study outside the major or concentration in which a student has a secondary area of specialization, requiring less course work than the major. Minors usually require that students earn 12-18 semester credits in subject area courses.

14.Remedial courses

Such courses or programs prepare a student for enrolling in a regular program, and aid the student in rectifying an area or areas of deficiency. Remedial courses are non-credit courses and do not count toward the requirements of an academic qualification.

B- Graduate Program Students

The students' performance is measured every semester based on the grades that they attain in every course taken during the semester. The CGPA is the measure of the students' level of academic achievement for all semesters attended at the University.

A system of quality points is used to evaluate the quality of work done by a student in completing courses. Quality points earned in a course are calculated by multiplying the grade point value of the letter grade by the number of credits the course is worth. Academic standing is determined by the total grade point average earned by the student. JU uses two grade point averages: the semester grade point average (SGPA) and the cumulative grade point average (CGPA).

All students must maintain a minimum CGPA of 2.5. If the CGPA of a student fall below 2.5 at the end of a semester, he/she is placed on academic probation with the exception of freshman students' first semester at JU. Students placed on academic probation must remove it within the next semester. Students on academic probation must remove probation status within the following semester by scoring a CGPA of 3.00 and above, otherwise they will be academically dismissed from the University.
